

Staten Island NYSSCSW Chapter
Presents:

Anger Management

Presenter: Raymond Reichenberg MS

Sunday, April 23, 2017
10AM -12:30PM

Location:

Andy Daly's office
43 Burton Ave
Staten Island, New York 10309

The presentation will be geared to the issues of working with clients who present anger as a prominent feature in their lives. Covered topics include: the nature of anger, common harmful effects, theories of how and why people become destructive, latest research into brain chemistry, triggers and trauma and techniques/ interventions to reduce the harmful effects of anger.

Anger management is psychoeducational and a combination of psychodynamic and cognitive approaches.

PLEASE, RSVP to Joann Joseph @ jj440@nyu.edu
AS SPACE IS LIMITED!

Raymond Reichenberg, MS

is a Psychoanalyst specializing in Anger Management, adjustment and anxiety disorders, depression, and couples and family counseling in his private practice in Brooklyn. Mr. Reichenberg has a Masters in Counseling from Hunter College, and completed training as a psychoanalyst in both Individual and group psychoanalysis at the Washington Square Institute. He is currently enrolled in an additional concentrating on Anger Management at the Albert Institute. He has provided presentations to the public, corporate work place seminars, and University settings for students in Mental Health programs. He is also employed at South Beach Psychiatric Center currently as an Administrator for the Department of Human Resource promoted from direct service in the 1980's.

There are no CE's for this event

